Sex, Gender and Sexuality

Sex
It is the biological characteristics that categorizes someone as either female or male.

Gender
It is socially determined ideas and perceptions of what it is to be female or male.
It is the social construct of roles, values and behaviors that a particular culture assigns to one biological sex or another.

Sexuality
It is a multi-faceted concept.
It is the way in which individuals structure their sexual behavior, performance and patterns.
It is the way in which individuals' sexual behavior and identity are linked.

REC

Patriarchy

It is a patriarchal social structure that institutionalizes male (physical, social and economic) power over women.

It is not a monolith in its nature. It varies from society, community.

Men in the society appropriate all upper social roles and keep women in a subordinate and exploited position.

It is an autonomous, social, historical, and political force. A social system of power in which the male possess the superior power over the female.
